

Understanding Autism

There are growing numbers of children and even adults who are suffering without knowing and without end. Are you one of them?

Understanding diseases

Recognising that over 90 per cent of diseases are due to pathogens of bacteria, fungi, viruses, parasites, toxins or tumours is the key to deal with these challenges. Nearly 100 per cent of cancer is mainly due to toxins and pathogens. 90 per cent of them have fasciolopsis buski parasite or large flat worm that donates toxins in our body to turn to tumours. Each of these has energy level to weaken our cellular energy and immune system. Identifying the correct energy frequency helps boost the immune system to overcome their presence.

Mystery of autism

Some say that autism is due to herpes and rubella viruses and environmental toxins. But there is one discovery of R1H2 virus closer to the heart of autism found in almost every case.

A mother of 7 year-old triplets was in a helpless situation. After an anti-rubella viral injection at the age of 2, the eldest behaved "in his own world". He confirmed to have mild autism. Unknown to the mother, the other two children were found to be worst as the virus has yet to manifest itself in greater degree.

She found out the vaccination is not the cause but due to the presence of R1H2 in her womb. The vaccination triggered the viral activity that was already in the child's brain. Test confirmed she has the virus still in her womb. This virus had passed on to the children when they were in her womb and attacked the brain which causes the disorder.

Her family lifestyle was traced and found the husband to be a potential carrier, to pass to the wife while in intimacy, and then to the children. On further study, the grandfather was traced to be the potential carrier and passed the virus down the line and to possibly to other children.

Autism is not hereditary but a viral problem that needs to be rid of. It is usually traced to multiple partners or the virus being carried down from earlier generations. If the virus is not removed, the child will be hyperactive, non- focused and part of the brain destroyed with memory loss. It will usually affect 99% of subsequent family members if the immune system is not strong enough to overcome it during the pregnancy period.

Partners that want to have a child must check whether either party has such virus before pregnancy and find a means to protect the child throughout the pregnancy period. If they are affected, they must be first treated before planning for a child. Usually if one partner is affected, the virus will pass on to the other. Both must be treated to stop the virus.

Autistic virus attacks differently to different sexes

For a boy, the virus will immediately attack his brain when young. For a girl, the virus will first lodge in the womb and part of the virus will slowly climb to the brain. This is one good reason why more boys are found to be autistic than girls. This is why girls affected have usually no sign in their initial years, but when comes to teenage or adulthood, the virus will also usually attack the brain. A number of women expressed sleep disorders, loss of mental focus, stress disorders, no energy, and pain all over the body. Some of them had to give up their jobs because of the continual stress in their mind and body. Some are treated as mental disorders and given mental pills! They have no answers and none were told they have the virus until discovered.

Parkinson's disease & lime disease

One of the discoveries is the presence of R1H2 in those with Parkinson's disease that destroys their brain that controls the body functions and movements. Removing this virus will help to improve the condition and allow the repairing of the brain cells to normalise again.

The same virus is also found in lime disease linked to ticks of animals that inject toxins to humans. Control of pets is so necessary. Sleeping with pets is the last thing to do as they have parasites that could pass on to humans, to lead to potential cancer if the parasites are not controlled. Some even suffer from eczema which could be linked to the pets.

It is good to discover early to prevent untold sufferings in later years and to later generations.
