Nature's Glory offers 'total concept' to fight disease

IN ORDER for students to learn well and to benefit from the enrichment classes they attend, they must first be healthy.

Especially with the recent dengue outbreak, it has become all the more important to watch out for one's health.

Nature's Glory has a "total concept" of dengue control, offering a variety of products to prevent and treat the disease.

Its main product is the nano energy booster (NeB) patch. It uses US technology that has been advanced with research by Nature's Glory in Singapore.

TARGETS

There are patches for different illnesses and the programme number 37 patches are especially designed to deal with dengue. These send an energy signature to dengue targets in the body and eventually stop the disease.

At $40 for a pack of 10 patches, they also repair and restore the damage to the bones and help increase the platelet count to a healthy level.

Mr Peter Lim, 70, founder and director of Nature's Glory, said his products are an alternative to hospital treatment.

He said: "While some medicine has side effects like drowsiness and lethargy which can affect a child's performance, the patches have no side effects."

Aside from NeB, Nature's Glory also offers other products meant to combat the dengue outbreak.

It offers supplements such as Chloro Growth Factor extract for the cells to generate new cells to help increase the platelet count, propolis, plum balls and Vitality C. These products are designed to build up the immune system.

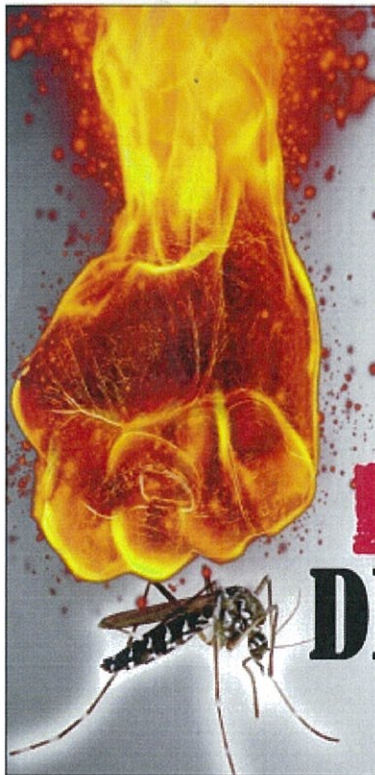

Another product is Adam's Clay Powder. From Mr Lim's personal experience, it has been effective in preventing the breeding of mosquitoes.

He said: "I live in a landed property and I did an experiment to see if the clay powder was effective in preventing mosquitoes from breeding. I found that not only did mosquitoes not breed, but the powder also prevented larvae from growing."

He started Nature's Glory in 1991 despite not having a background in the field.

His son Christopher, 40, a microbiologist by training, joined him in 1998. He is a director and the research development manager of the firm.

The elder Mr Lim said: "Nature's Glory has done research to combat dengue. With our products, these attacks can be minimised and those who have the disease can recover quickly. In this way, we not only help fight dengue, but help win the fight against it."

The strategies to maintain a healthy body lies in protecting, preventing and healing remedies of our natural health products and organic food. Our Dengue Patch, Eucalyptus in Dr Bronner's Organic Soap, Essential Oils like Purification, Lemon grass, Lavender and Thieves combined including special Clay and CGF can help to prevent and fight dengue and insect bites. Nature's Glory has always the answer for most health factors discovering many benefits ahead of time. Visit our showroom and website to explore the potentials that benefit your loved ones"
