More Discoveries. More Recoveries

By Peter Lim

Case #2: Amazing recovery of an eleven-year old boy

At 3 months old, he had seizure. By 9 months he stopped looking at his mum and at the age of 2, stopped talking. By 5, he became hyper-active. By 7, he was not keen to play or study, and often caused problems in school, wetting himself, throwing and stripping himself onto the floor causing self injury, with sleep disorders. At 11, he forced his way through locked window grilles and fell onto the 12th floor ledge.

3 months ago, we found he had the highest autistic attack in his cerebrum and cerebellum, 4 times higher than the average. He had high levels of memory loss, brain damage and stress. He is now more focused in his studies, cooperating well, with no meltdowns. He communicates and reasons well. His neuro-feedback confirmed his brain stability. Reports have shown that his virus is completely gone and brain damage has been reduced by 78%, within just 3 months of our therapy.

Case #3: Amazing recovery of a male in his late forties

His migraines started when he was 5 and suffered immensely till he could not bear it. That was when he decided to consult us. He suffered 2 strokes in 3 years, and 2 heart attacks in 2 years. His delayed visit cost him his second heart attack and $30,000 in operation. He had high artery blocks and autistic viral attack in his cerebrum, damaging his brain, sexual organs, kidneys and heart. Within 6 months of our energy therapy, his artery blocks were cleared and virus gone. Organ damages were reduced and he was on the route to recovery like his 2 children. His viral attack was at birth.

His wife delayed the therapy and the virus has just entered her brain, besides her uterus and currently under therapy.

virus to become active. Only about 2% of the incidents are exceptions.

Effective Treatment

For years there have been no long term solutions to autism, including ADHD and ADD. But we believe the answer is here. We've witnessed many cases on the road to recovery using our energy patch therapy with holistic approach. The first group of therapy is to remove the virus, and this usually takes up to 6 months. The second group is to use stem cell energy to repair the damaged brain and organs which takes a further 6 to 18 months. The younger the child, the earlier the therapy, the lesser the damage, the faster he recovers. We have seen adults improve if they follow therapy with strict discipline. Once the virus is removed and the organs repaired, the child will react better. The virus usually does not return.

We have helped many families. But this autism race is won only by those who believe and persist in the therapy. Below are some serious cases that have responded well. If you are positive, it should work well for you. Parental intervention and professional training will help the child recover quickly. But the root viral causes must first be dealt with.

Case #1: Amazing recovery of a five-year old girl

The girl in the photo was unable to talk, focus, respond or make eye contact, and was often restless and hyperactive. In shopping centres, she threw products all over. On public transport, she covered her ears. In school, she could not focus. Her mum had to give up on her career just to take care of her.

20 months ago, we found the girl to have high degree of autistic viral attack in her brain and uterus, with stress, memory loss and brain damage. Within 2 weeks of our energy patch therapies, she was more composed, focused and less confused. She could hold the parents' hands, speak, respond with better focus and eye contact. By 5 months, she was on the road to recovery. Her mother has reported a 90% recovery.

Our Research

For every child that comes to see us with autism, there is a good likelihood that the mother is also affected with the autistic virus called R1H2. In our research here, we've dealt with hundreds of cases, tracing the virus up to 4 generations in one family, with affected siblings and their children. We identified children as young as 10 months old and adults who appear normal.

If the virus is spread from mother to son, the son might affect his future wife and children. If the virus is spread to a daughter, it will affect her children though not all husbands. Sometimes the virus begins with one of the spouses within the immediate family. Once the virus is found in a family member, it is wise to test all family members and ensure the removal of viral presence so that future generations will not be affected. This is also one of the viruses linked to Parkinson's disease.

Virus In Women

An affected woman should not conceive as her unborn baby will catch the virus in her womb. For a baby boy, the virus attacks the brain immediately while a baby girl is usually attacked in the womb. Some experience viral migration to the brain during their teenage or adulthood. Attack on the cerebrum will affect major organs including speech, sight, hearing and focus, with migraines, sleep disorders and hyper-activities. Cerebellum attack is milder and usually affects motion stability.

Some women have reported continual miscarriages, inability to give birth or children born with abnormal growth. Others have ovarian cysts, fibroids, endometriosis, cancer tumours, irregular menses, heavy discharge, all of which are potentially traced to the autistic virus found in the sexual organs. Other pathogens could also affect.

From our observation of many case studies, we are not inclined to believe that autism is due to inoculations or toxic deposits but these could have triggered the non active
